Press Release

WFMD AM 930 Schedules New Provocative Talk Show

Frederick, Maryland, September 1, 2009: Following their controversial Town Hall Meeting with Senator Ben Cardin on August 12, 2009, Mark Kreslins who was profiled on CNN Anderson Cooper and Joshua Lyons, Co-Founders of "We Surround Them – Frederick" appeared on Fox News Channels' popular Fox & Friends Show. Because of the well received national appearances the opinions of these two average citizens will now be accessible to the general public starting each Saturday, starting September 12, 2009 from 12:00PM-1:00PM on The Forgotten Men show. The wildly popular Rush Limbaugh Program will follow The Forgotten Men.

With numerous appearances on the Blaine Young Show, as well as other WFMD programs, the duo of Kreslins and Lyons team up to promote the necessity of returning to a Constitutional form of Government. With a very successful launch of a local non-partisan political grassroots group, the need to take the message of a limited central federal government to a broader group in the Frederick area has become apparent.

Billing their program as The Forgotten Men, the pair intends to be provocative, lively, and issues oriented, all with a local flavor. As Lyons' stated; "I often hear that understanding the Constitution and the Founders vision is hard, we intend obliterate that idea. We the People are empowered when the truths of how the country came to be, are understood, from an average citizens perspective."

Targeting the "Average Citizen" will be the hallmark of the program. "We intend to build bridges, not walls and we know the exact tools to use...the Declaration of Independence and the US Constitution. And while neither of us are constitutional scholars, we're not going to hand over the understanding of these documents only to the politicians and traditional media," Kreslins said.
