Public health authorities now predict as inevitable a pandemic of influenza, triggered by bird flu and expected to lead to millions of deaths around the globe. The influenza virus has existed for millions of years as an innocuous intestinal virus of wild ducks. What turned a harmless waterborne duck virus into a killer? In an engaging multimedia presentation, Dr. Michael Greger traces the human role in the evolution of this virus. In the face of the coming pandemic, Dr. Greger reveals what we can do to protect our families and what society can do to reduce the likelihood of such potential catastrophes in the future.

Michael Greger, M.D., is Director of Public Health and Animal Agriculture at The Humane Society of the United States. An internationally recognized lecturer, he has presented at the Conference on World Affairs, the National Institutes of Health, and the Bird Flu Summit, among countless other symposia and institutions, and was invited as an expert witness in defense of Oprah Winfrey at the infamous "meat defamation" trial. Dr. Greger is a graduate of the Cornell University School of Agriculture and the Tufts University School of Medicine.

Seating for this special event is limited.
Advance registration is suggested.

Guests for this potluck dinner are asked to bring a dish made without animal products to serve at least 5 times the number in their party, along with a donation of $5. Or you may attend without bringing a dish for a $12 fee. Earthsave members who bring a dish to share may RSVP and pay $2 at the door. Guests may make payment at the online store at WWW.EARTHSAVE.ORG, or send your check or money order to "EARTHSAVE", at 517 Talbott Ave. Lutherville, MD, 21093.
