

Mick Fowler

Matterhorns of Tibet

'The mountaineer's mountaineer' The Observer

Mick Fowler is the UK's most exciting taxman and the author of two legendary books – Vertical Pleasure (1995) and the Banff Mountain Book Festival Mountain Literature Category award winning On Thin Ice (2006). This show documents his very latest adventures on Kajaqiao and Manamcho as he races for alpine style ascents on China's most spectacular mountains.

Tim Emmett

Big Air

'Tim Emmett lives life like a thrown knife'
Climb Magazine

Tim introduces the concept of climbing big walls, with a BASE jumping parachute rig, enabling rapid descents, and he says, 'More time before last orders' Unfortunately not always possible when you are on day 8 nearing 7000m, 30 miles from the nearest boozer.' Tim is renowned both for his remarkable climbing ability and his appearances with Jeremy Clarkson on Top Gear. He is also an enthusiastic, motivational and energy charged speaker.

Rosie Goolden

The Perfect Storm

As well as being an active climber, MIC mountain guide and founder of Chicks Unleashed, Rosie Goolden has an insatiable thirst for adventure. In 2006 she travelled to a rarely trodden peak in the Peruvian Villiconta. Her objective was to pioneer a hard new route on its un-climbed West Buttress, and things didn't always go to plan. Featuring inspirational photography, tall tales and humour, Rosie's talk promises to be a night to remember.

Stuart McAleese

The Good, The Bad, and the Ugly

Stuart is an aspirant mountain guide who has been climbing for over 15 years. He is renowned for his bold climbing, often in remote places. In 2003, Stuart, along with a team of Welsh climbers made a major first ascent in Alaska that was nominated for the Piolet d'Or. Stuart's presentation covers the whole adventure, from the hair-raising flight to the glacier to the magic moment when they stand on the summit. His talk features stunning video footage and is a unique insight into what happens when climbers spend 7 nights living on a big wall in sub zero temperatures.
