

August Meetup Meeting Review

Our last meetup meeting happened on August 26th, and we had 8 people in attendance. The topic for the night was Raster vs. Vector images. For that Tatiana and Brian, inspired by the Mac and PC commercials did an improvisation where Tatiana played Raster (Bitmap) image and Brian played Vector image.

We discussed the definition of them, the difference and appropriate uses of them. Also why is it important to know what format you are working with and why you should know the difference between the types if you just work with your personal pictures. We talked about tracing images, making drawings out of pictures and different types of files.

If you missed the presentation or just wants to learn more about the subject, here are some additional places to get information:
