

Ten Reasons Why We Support Ron Paul for President

1. He is a man of principle who always votes consistently with his principles and beliefs. He does not fudge, dodge, deceive or distort. What you see is what you get.
2. He voted against the Patriot Act, believing strongly that we should not sacrifice our sacred civil liberties in the name of security, real or imagined.
3. He is reaching a whole new generation of Americans with his message of freedom, peace and prosperity. For the first time, many young Americans are excited about and getting involved in politics. We must do all we can to ensure that Dr. Paul's message reaches millions more.
4. He voted against going to war in Iraq and is the only Republican candidate pledged to ending the war.
5. He firmly believes in and is an advocate for the rule of law, limited government, enumerated powers and personal responsibility.
6. He has never voted for a tax increase and will never do so. As President, he will veto any tax increase that comes to him from Congress.
7. He is committed to abolishing the unconstitutional federal agencies and bureaucracies, along with their ever-present threat to the privacy and pocketbooks of every American.
8. He will examine every issue through the prism of personal and economic freedoms, being fully committed to protecting these precious rights from the feel-good affectations and programs of the moment.
9. He is receiving the financing for his presidential campaign from ordinary people like you and us, not the fat cats, special interests, lobbyists, and establishment-types with their hands extended with high hopes of governmental largess in return for their support. Dr. Paul believes in and trusts the regular folks, and they, in return, are financing his message of freedom, peace and prosperity; and
10. His election will change America. If elected, every other candidate of both parties will simply maintain the status quo, with only slight deviations from each other. Only the election of Congressman Paul offers the opportunity for real change, for a true rebirth of freedom in this country, for a sound restoration of the American Dream.
