

Saturday Night Dinners Attendance Policy

We have a 24-hour rule. It's like when the clock strikes midnight in Cinderella. This is the final hour and we need to know if you're coming or not. Please make sure your RSVP accurately reflects your intention to attend or not.

So, 24 hours prior to an event...

1. If your RSVP is Maybe, change to Yes or No. If you are unable to commit to a Yes but want to secure a spot, email the Organizer.
2. If your RSVP is Yes, we will be expecting you. Canceling your RSVP within 24 hours of an event or not showing up is a violation of our policy.
3. Communicate late cancellations. If you cancel within 24 hours of an event or don't show, you can avoid penalties by immediately emailing the Organizer and explaining your situation.
 - 1 late cancellation/no show = Warning
 - 2 late cancellations/no shows = Possible removal from group

This attendance policy is intended to reduce the number of late cancellations and no shows by establishing the group's expectations of its members and the consequences for not adhering to them. It does not apply to changing your RSVP to Yes if a spot opens up on the RSVP list. We will be tracking late cancellations and no shows and will take action in accordance with our policy. The most important thing to remember is when in doubt, communicate. If you are considerate, we will be very understanding and you may be able to avoid penalties. Thank you for your cooperation!
