

IN IT TO WIN IT...

A Lesson from Reagan

In 1968, Ronald Reagan stayed in the race and came in 3rd at the convention with 182 delegates. In 1976 Reagan stayed in the race all the way to the convention and prevented Ford from getting to 1130 delegates. Ford cut a deal that secured enough delegates before the 1st Ballot but Reagan did not bow out until Ford had crossed the finish line.

Reagan came into the 1976 North Carolina primary having lost the first five consecutive primaries to Ford. The national party establishment was against Reagan, the media started to write him off, and his campaign was broke and in debt. Needless to say, the pressure to drop out of the race was nearly overwhelming.

Even though Reagan won in NC it was soon statistically impossible for Reagan to win. He still stayed in. He said conservatives have a problem with Ford and until he gets 1130 delegates, I will press on.

While everyone today claims to be a follower of Reagan, one candidate is following directly in his footsteps. A mathematical impossibility and believer in miracles, a man who the media has written off and yet who refuses to go away... Mike Huckabee.

So this election day, vote for a true conservative. Vote for Huckabee. Learn more at mikehuckabee.com or hucksarmy.com
